📍 KAMPALA, UGANDA

ABOUT KAMPALA, UGANDA

It is estimated that Uganda has 10,000 street children. There are 10 – 15,000 children who are living in camps in the northern districts as a result of conflict. Furthermore, there is increasing vulnerability among children as a result of the break-up of marriages and partnerships and domestic violence. There are children who have endured unimaginable abuses; children with disability related vulnerabilities; and children in institutional or other forms of foster care that are often unstable. Mission Discovery teams will work alongside Rising Up Hope Uganda, an organization doing amazing things to help these children. Teams will do various construction projects, lead Children's Bible School, and help the staff at RUHU.
